“Dewesoft products are used in cutting-edge laboratories around the world to develop rockets and satellites that deliver fast communications, new safer vehicles and products that improve the daily lives of people around the world. Pursuing this mission requires that we choose proven and highly competent partners to do business with and collaborate with. Both we and Kontron are committed to the satisfaction of our customers. It is this focus on customers and partners that is one of the several commonalities that our company shares with Kontron. When we realised that the Kranj-based ICT company also offered electronics development services – they presented their services very well – we partnered with them. Their team delivered what we had agreed professionally, consistently and very quickly. The expert team of development engineers at business unit EMS further enhanced and modernised our existing product.”
